

REPORT ON GENERAL ELECTION DUTY AS WEBCASTERS BY NSS-JBIET VOLUNTEERS

DATE: 13/05/2024

LOCATION :- CHEVELLA CONSTITUENCY

TOTAL PARTICIPANTS :- 35

INTRODUCTION

In the heart of civic responsibility, NSS-JBIET volunteers took up their roles as webcasters during the General Elections. Armed with cameras and a sense of duty, they captured the essence of democracy in action.

Program Highlights:

1. Live Streaming: From bustling polling booths to counting centers, the volunteers ensured that citizens across the digital spectrum stayed informed. Their live streams brought the electoral process directly to screens, bridging the gap between voters and the ballot box.
2. Behind the Scenes: Beyond the lens, NSS-JBIET webcasters worked tirelessly. They interviewed election officials, observed the meticulous counting process, and shared stories of voters' determination. Their commitment to transparency was unwavering

3. Tech Savvy: Armed with gadgets and enthusiasm, these volunteers navigated technical challenges. Rain or shine, they ensured uninterrupted coverage, making democracy accessible to all—even those miles away from the polling booths.
4. Empowering Voters: Through their lens, NSS-JBIET volunteers empowered voters. Their webcasts reminded us that elections aren't just about numbers; they're about voices echoing in booths, ink-stained fingers, and hope for a better future.

CONCLUSION

In this digital age, webcasters became the storytellers of democracy. NSS-JBIET's contribution was more than pixels on screens; it was a celebration of our collective right—the right to vote.

And so, as the last vote was cast and the final tally revealed, these webcasters stood tall, knowing they'd played a vital role in shaping our nation's destiny
